Administrative grievance, disciplinary, and adverse action files:

- a. Disciplinary case files include Performance Improvement Appraisal Plan and letter and other evidence of employee behavior documented in supervisor's memos, employee's replies, statements by other parties such as previous employers, health professionals if reasonable accommodation is a factor in the case, or law enforcement agencies, or other documentation related to the employee's case. Disciplinary case files include a letter to the employee describing the proposed personnel action. After a minimum of 30 days, a letter of decision is issued. Files are maintained in red case binders. Copies: Cases referred for decision
  - (1) are reproduced and placed in a green case file. At this time a copy of the file is also made for (2) the employee; (3) the union; or (4) the employee's attorney. If the case is contested by the employee the (1) green case file becomes the litigation file where additional correspondence and exhibits are added to the file. After the case is settled or closed and the appeal period has been exhausted, the green file is returned to Employee Relations where it is disassembled, the additional contents inserted into the red case file, duplications shredded, and the red case file maintained for seven years from the date of the last action
- b. Disciplinary and adverse actions initiated by supervisors, or requests for medical documentation, or administrative grievances filed by employees.

34 Employee Relations Database

Suitability data is stored in this database. Suitability reports are issued by OPM on newly appointed employees. If the background check results in a negative report, the USPTO may elect to terminate the employee instead of granting permanent employment status.

35 Employee Relations Division Files

Policy subject files containing copies of directives from the DOC, Office of Personnel Management, and USPTO Human Resources. Files are used for administrative reference in meeting the duties and responsibilities of the Employee Relations Division. Includes FYI memos, case law, and related information.

36 Employee Relations Litigation Files

Files are initially duplicates of Employee Relations Case Files inserted into green case folders and transferred to DOC legal staff. During the process of litigation until settlement, closure documents and related correspondence are added to the files which remain with the attorney assigned to the case. They are moved to employee's place of work if employee is transferred. The files are maintained by the Legal staff until the case is closed and the appeals process has been exhausted. The files are then returned to the Division for integration with the Employee Relations Case Files in red binders. These reintegrated files are maintained for seven years after the date of the latest document in the file.

37 Employee Training File for OPF

Copies of employee training contained in the OPF file. Filed by employee name, the record contains training requested, approved, and completed. Data is derived from SF 182, Request, Authorization, Agreement, and Certification of Training.

132 Equal Employment Opportunity Case Management Retrieval System (EEOCMRS)

The USPTO Office of Civil Rights receives and processes complaints of civil rights discrimination, and requests for reasonable accommodation. The Equal Employment Opportunity Case Management Retrieval System (EEOCMRS) provides, among other functions, the use of electronic images of EEO request applications to support the Office of Civil Rights processing of these actions. The system affords a streamlined, electronic document method within the Office of Civil Rights for entering, processing, preserving, and retrieving documents, and issuing reports. After a prospective complainant is interviewed by an EEO Specialist, the specialist completes a Counseling Contact Form, in electronic format, that articulates the claims of the discrimination. A hard copy of the form is printed for signature by the intake specialist. The signed paper copy is scanned into the system. During the complainant process various standard forms are created, signed and scanned into the system. The forms reflect those contained in case files common to Civil Rights Offices through out the federal government. The aggrieved employee may either settle the matter (informal complaint case file) or file a formal discrimination complaint (formal complaint case file). Information is entered into the system by USPTO Office of Civil Rights personnel who scan the original copies of documents that are generated during reasonable accommodation process and the employment discrimination process. The stored information resides on magnetic mass storage disk. The system is accessible to all personnel in the USPTO Office of Civil Rights. Limited access may be afforded to collateral-duty EEO Counselors:

- a. System software and updates
- b. Life Cycle Management Documentation
- c. Inputs: Complaints, paper copy
  - 1) Formal complaints
  - 2) Informal complaints
- d. Outputs: Complaints, scanned electronic copy
